Dear PETA,

RE: Urgent Intervention Required to Stop the Inhumane Culling of 400 Ostriches in Edgewood, BC

I am writing to urgently request PETA's assistance in preventing the inhumane culling of 400 healthy ostriches in Edgewood, BC. The Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA) has sought to hire hunters for this task. Time is of the essence, and immediate action is required. For the latest updates, please visit <https://saveourostriches.com>.

As a member and or friend of PETA, I implore your organization to leverage its considerable influence to ensure these animals continue to live and contribute to crucial antibody scientific research. This situation has captured worldwide attention, emphasizing the urgent need for animal rights advocacy by PETA. Successfully addressing this issue will save the lives of countless animals.

In British Columbia, the BC Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (BCSPCA) has not responded to our requests for humane intervention should the culling proceed. It is important to note that there is no humane way to execute such a mass culling of these ancient animals.

Thank you for your attention to this critical matter. I look forward to your support in preventing the slaughter of these genetically important animals, which will have far reaching consequences for animal welfare if you do not act Now!

Sincerely,
